Granite Pillar

Stone pillars and stone columns are available utilized as a support and decoration. Unlike the artificial cast stone, the solid granite pillars are strong to provide structural support and chemical resistant to provide lasting beauty for centuries to come. Also they are available in solid or hollow natural stone configurations and can be used in both structural and non-structural interior and exterior applications. Whether modern or traditional, our display collection granite column have different style. They are available in concept designing will drawn from grace. Carved individually from these columns offer architects and homeowners the flexibility to specify the size and style to suit any projects' requirements.
